

MycoRev™ Adapt

MycoRev™ Adapt is a combination mushroom herbal supplement featuring high quality extracts of cordyceps and rhodiola, selected for their adaptogenic synergy.

Cordyceps is the fruit body of a parasitic fungus. Various cordyceps species have long been revered in traditional medicine systems, particularly in Asia, where it is highly regarded as a general wellbeing tonic with value for improving physical stamina and athletic capacity. Cordyceps also has an affinity for supporting healthy lungs and kidneys.

The classic species of cordyceps (Ophiocordyceps sinensis) is extremely rare and not suitable for large scale commercial cultivation. Luckily, research has confirmed its related species, the relatively common Cordyceps militaris, is interchangeable for health benefits. Beneficially, it boasts a significantly higher level of the key active constituent, cordycepin, which is the subject of much emerging scientific literature.

Rhodiola, commonly known as golden root (R. rosea), is a succulent plant native to the torturous climate of high altitude and arctic regions where little else flourishes. Historically, it has been prized as a folk remedy for coping with extreme environmental conditions and is well-known today for its ability to improve our capacity to maintain optimal function in stressful situations, whether they be physical, mental, or environmental. MycoRev™ Adapt uses rhodiola extract, standardized to rosavins and salidroside, to ensure high quality and effectiveness.

The synergistic mechanisms at play in this combination of valued tonics and adaptogens from the plant and fungal kingdoms presents a powerful and holistic ally to help us to maintain our optimal capacity to perform.
