

MycoRev™ Immune

MycoRev™ Immune is a combination mushroom supplement featuring high quality extracts of Shiitake, Reishi, and Maitake, selected for their synergistic immune-supporting benefits.

The use of Shiitake (Lentinula edodes) as both a food and a medicine dates back thousands of years. Traditionally, it has been used for weakness, fatigue, poor digestion, and liver support.* To date, there is a substantial body of clinical evidence outlining Shiitake's role as an immune support herb.¹

Reishi (Ganoderma lucidum) is arguably the most famous of all medicinal mushrooms. Used extensively in China and Japan, it is dubbed 'the Emperor's mushroom of immortality' in traditional Chinese medicine, referring to its role as a general tonic for vitality and longevity.² In addition, Reishi was traditionally employed to restore Qi and used for nervous system support to ease the mind and encourage healthy sleep quality.² Broad clinical evidence supports its use as an immune modulator and tonic, may be considered during convalescence and recovery*²

Maitake's (Grifola frondosa) traditional use comes to us mostly from Japan.³ Long revered as a respected medicinal fungus and culinary delight, its broad uses include: a general organ tonic, supporting detoxification and liver function, calming the nerves, and quietening a busy mind.³ Containing a particularly high content of active polysaccharides, there is now also significant clinical trial data with respect to its positive immune system support⁴ as well as emerging evidence in relation to its support of healthy blood sugar balance.⁵

When combined, these three mushrooms provide a synergy for optimized immune function, general well-being, and healthy aging.* Such protective power makes this combination an ideal fortifier to keep well and, when challenged, to improve resistance.*
